Press release date: April 24, 2013

Chicago Rivet & Machine Co., a leading manufacturer of rivets and intricate cold formed parts, automatic riveters and tooling and machine components for rivet setting equipment, as well as automated assembly systems, has updated their website with several new user-friendly features. Among these enhancements include a photo gallery section and description of specialty cold formed parts we manufacture, as well as custom riveting equipment we have successfully designed for customer applications, separate from our standard line of automatic riveters. In addition, four different portfolio case studies (two fastener related and two machine related) highlighting specific solutions we have designed for our clients is also accessible within our new realm. Finally, in-depth information in regards to our quality standards is also noted with corresponding images of some of our testing gauges to ensure customer tolerance accuracy is met.

About Chicago Rivet & Machine Co.

Chicago Rivet & Machine Co. is an ISO TS 16949 certified manufacturer of custom cold formed parts and has been fulfilling and exceeding customer expectations for over 90 years!
